

Bloggers, Have Your Insight Heard!

Join the Techdirt Insight Community and add your insight and perspective to the growing community of bloggers providing direct analysis and feedback to companies worldwide.

Take part in interesting discussions with your peers

As part of the Techdirt Insight Community, you'll have opportunities to interact with many other bloggers who follow and write about topics you're interested in.

Interact with companies who want your opinion

Allow Techdirt to bring companies who want your insight directly to you.

Get paid for your insight

Every time you add your insight to the community, Techdirt will pay you.

How it works:

- Sign up at www.insightcommunity.com
- Use your blog as your resume, highlighting posts that display your areas of expertise
- Techdirt will send you issues that customers want your analysis on, using our double blind system to promote more honest dialog
- Respond to the issues in Techdirt's platform
- You may then have the opportunity to continue the discussion with other bloggers who responded to the same issue
- Each month, you'll receive a check or paypal deposit for the money you earned

Techdirt Insight Community is a great new way to leverage your expertise and knowledge by advising companies that want your input. Through our Corporate Intelligence business (<http://www.techdirtci.com/>), we work with top Fortune 500 companies, providing them relevant information to help them make important business decision. Ad your voice to ours.

The Techdirt Insight Community offers you a business model for your insight, access to companies that need your expertise and a way to learn more through communication with these companies and your peers in the blogosphere. We're putting our salesforce to work for you, allowing you to focus on what you do best: giving your opinion and analysis on important topics that you care about.